DANGER AREAS OF H-BOMB MAPPED—The Atomic Energy Commission disclosed that radioactive fallout from an H-bomb blast would be capable of killing anyone within a 7,000-square-mile area downwind from the blast. This map

Education Association Denounces Eisenhower School Aid Program

WASHINGTON (P)—The National Education Assn. today denounced President Eisenhower's school aid program and pleaded for "some genuine . . . instead of token" federal help to give every school child a desk.

Senate Expected To OK Boost In Congress Pay

WASHINGTON (P)—Leaders predicted today the Senate will follow the House lead in voting a substantial pay boost for members of Congress and federal judges.

The House voted 283-118 Wednesday to give the 96 senators and 435 representatives a $10,000 annual boost to $25,000. Comparable raises are included for the vice-president, the House speaker, all federal judges and U.S. attorneys.

Sen. Clements (D-Ky.) acting majority leader, said the Senate probably will take up its version of the pay raise next week.

The bill approved by a heavy majority in the Senate Judiciary Committee would give members of Congress a $7,500 increase to $22,500.

Sen. George (D-Ga.), dean of the Senate and its president pro tem, and Sen. Bridges (R-N.H.), senior Republican member, support the raise to $22,500.

However, one senator who has backed a pay boost said in an interview today his mail is running heavily against it and that, while visiting in his state last week, he found people "bitter" about it. This senator, asking not to be named, indicated he may vote "no."

The pay bill sailed through the House with relatively light opposition.

Minority Leader Halleck (R-Ind.) said most federal employees have had four or five pay hikes since members of Congress last got one in 1946.

Flash Fire Razes Old Ladies' Home In Japan; 100 Dead

YOKOHAMA, Japan (P)—About 100 aged women died in flaming agony today when a flash fire roared through a Roman Catholic old ladies' home before dawn.

There were only 46 survivors, police said. Nearly all were burned or injured in jumps from the second floor of their two-story wooden dormitory, declared a fire hazard in 1953. Several were in critical condition.

"I could do nothing," a survivor cried. "I can hear their screams, 'Hot! . . . Hot! . . . Help! . . . Help!'"

The inmates were mainly pitiful old Japanese women without families. Their ages ranged from 60 to 96.

Sister Umeko Sugiyama, 42, a nun, died when she dashed back into the burning building to carry out another of her charges.

The home, a converted Japanese army barracks, was part of the convent of the Garden of Our Lady, belonging to the Franciscan Missionaries of Mary, an international Catholic order.

Yokohama police said the blaze apparently started with defective wiring at 4:30 a.m. Heat and sparks ignited a two-story chapel and two other buildings. They too burned to the ground.

The main convent housing 101 nuns and novices, mainly Japanese, was spared.

Chihio Hamada, 86, told how the oldest resident, 96-year-old Mrs. Machi Okuni, died.

"We were awakened—only to see flames and smoke all around."

"Okuni-san looked about her and said, 'I am old enough to die.'

"Then she held up her bed quilt to keep the flames back and let the others escape."

Firemen spread mattresses and implored the old women to jump. Some did. Others were too feeble. Many were hard of hearing and woke only when flames approached them.

Police Squad Car Stalled By Kitten

CHICAGO (P)—A kitten stalled a police squad car for three hours Wednesday night.

The animal was trapped under the squad car's hood in an almost inaccessible recess under the right front fender. Policemen Joseph Cunningham and Kenneth Freyer tried to lure it out with catnip, but with no success.

Allen Gisch of the Animal Welfare League was called. Finally, it was necessary to remove the car's oil pan before he could rescue the animal.

Police said they had no idea how the kitten got under the hood.

Liberated Fields Visiting London

LONDON (P)—Hermann Field and his wife notified her mother here today that they expect to arrive in London by train from Switzerland tonight.

Mrs. Field's letter said her husband would make no statement upon arrival but would hold his first news conference Friday.

Hermann Field, his brother Noel and his wife, Herta, all were released by the Communists late last year after being held for more than five years on espionage charges which the Reds finally said were unjustified.

Hermann, a Cleveland architect, was held in Poland. Since his release from Warsaw, he has been in Switzerland with his British wife, who joined him there.

Noel Field, a prewar State Department employee, and his wife asked for asylum in Communist Hungary after their release from a Budapest prison. They have refused to see Western reporters.

Noel Field was seized in Prague in 1949. His wife dropped out of sight while trying to trace him. Herman made a rescue trip behind the Iron Curtain that August and was arrested in Warsaw.

Million Dollar Newspaper Libel Suit Dismissed

BALTIMORE (P)—A million dollar libel suit brought by Lawrence Westbrook and Heinz Pulverman against the Sunpapers was thrown out of federal court Wednesday.

Judge William C. Coleman handed down a summary judgment without trial on a motion by the A. S. Abell Co., publisher of the Sunpapers.

Westbrook formerly was connected with the Democratic National Committee. He and Pulverman asked damages because of an Associated Press dispatch based on a copyrighted story in the New York Herald Tribune. It dealt with their activities as representatives of a foreign metal concern in contracts with the U.S. government.

The story originated in the 1952 political campaign and included quotes from President Eisenhower, at the time a candidate.

Judge Coleman ruled there "was no abuse of the qualified privilege" which the newspaper had to report and print information contained in the disputed article.

He ruled the story represented a fair comment on a matter in the public interest and was a justified use of the qualified privilege of newspapers.

The plaintiffs contended they were entitled to damages because the story had been printed with malice. Judge Coleman ruled the fact the Sunpapers favored the election of Eisenhower did not show malice against the defendants.

His ruling also hinged on a technical court procedure. The defense had asked Westbrook and Pulverman to make certain admissions of fact as a prelude to the trial. The plaintiffs did not answer the demand for admissions within the time limit. Judge Coleman then ruled the facts must be accepted as true since the plaintiffs did not contradict or deny them.

Similar suits are pending against newspapers in several other cities.

Plane Saves 5; Taxis 45 Miles

HONOLULU (P)—An Air Force amphibious plane Wednesday made a dramatic open-sea rescue of five fishermen, then had to taxi 45 miles through rough seas to Hilo harbor.

When he reached dry land, Capt. Frank M. Leese, pilot, remarked: "I'm glad I'm in the Air Force and not the Navy."

Leese, of Albuquerque, said he did not dare attempt a takeoff in the heavy seas with the help of the five fishermen.

His crew doesn't get air sick. But they were slightly pale around the gills at the end of the four-hour water trip.

The two-engine Albatross picked up from the sinking 56-foot fishing sampan Heian Maru the owner-captain Kamesho Makarama, 55; Richard K. Tabata, 26; Masa Miyashiro, 31; Charles K. Yozo, 29; and Roy N. Oyakawa, 29. None were injured.

The Heian rammed a reef, caving in the port side.

British Disagree With American Formosa Policy

LONDON (P)—A British-American rift over Formosa flared into the open today following U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' rejection of a British suggestion that Chinese Nationalists evacuate all the China offshore islands.

The story originated in the 1952 political campaign and included quotes from President Eisenhower, at the time a candidate.

Judge Coleman ruled there "was no abuse of the qualified privilege" which the newspaper had to report and print information contained in the disputed article.

Strange U-Boat Sighted By Navy

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (P)—The Navy plans an investigation to give "proper evaluation" to the reported sighting of an unidentified submarine near Fort Pierce, Fla., Wednesday morning.

Two Coast Guardsmen, sent out to investigate an "orange glow" at sea, reported they approached within "a quarter of a mile or less" of the object about 11 miles southeast of Fort Pierce before they lost sight of it in the early darkness.

At New London, Conn., Lt. Cmdr. Jack Parry, public information officer for Atlantic submarine fleet headquarters, said: "It's not ours. We have no submarines operating in that area."

Anti-Red Invaders Fight Extradition To Romania In Bern

BERN, Switzerland (P)—The international dispute that has strained relations between Romania and this long neutral nation. Some observers predicted a diplomatic break might result.

The four men face trial here for the death of a legation chauffeur, Aurel Sedu, fatally wounded Monday night when the anti-Reds seized the legation at gunpoint and drove the staff out into the street. Swiss courts are now investigating the case against the men.

Coleman said there never had been any Republican promise to put a proposal on the ballot.

Coleman said "I cannot understand why the Upper Peninsula has not wakened up to the fact that it will get only 56 miles of new roads out of the governor's program."

Williams said all political parties were pledged in the last campaign to submit some kind of a proposal and that to fail would "break faith" with the people.

The Republican floor leader in the Senate, Sen. Creighton R. Coleman, Battle Creek, replied that "Williams has finally shown his hand."

The governor, Coleman said, "has demonstrated that he is not so much interested in a solution of the highway program as he is in getting a bond issue on the ballot so that he can tie a road program to the Democratic ticket and campaign all over the state . . . To get out a big labor vote and put the state school system in the hands of the CIO."

This was a reference to the fact that the state superintendent of public instruction will be elected in April.

Teachers Discuss Arithmetic Study

Courses of study dealing with arithmetic and allied branches and methods employed in the effort to make this most useful of sciences understandable to the growing child, were discussed at a symposium conducted in Escanaba Junior High School auditorium yesterday afternoon with ten instructors in city grade schools participating.

Miss Mary Criston, principal of Washington school, presided at the meeting and led the discussions arranging them on a grade basis, beginning with methods pursued in teaching the simple association of numbers to children in the primary grades and the gradual development of the science as the children advance.

At this stage of instruction it was stressed that children should learn how these numbers apply to our daily life and that employment of abstract practice in simple addition, subtraction, multiplication and division should always be followed by concrete examples of simple objects in daily life that the child will understand.

Make haste slowly, develop confidence, make questions clear and give most attention to difficult points, the teachers stressed as most important.

Higher Mathematics

Basic arithmetic gets its most advanced treatment in the sixth grade, just before the student enters junior high school, it was stated. At this stage about one hour a day is given the subject.

In the seventh grade the student begins maturing rapidly and is becoming more and more on his own responsibility. It is at this stage that the basic principles of higher mathematics are approached. From here on to the eighth grade effort is made to make arithmetic so well understood that involved problems can be solved with a minimum of effort, and with reasoning ability developed, ability with numbers perfected along with computation skill.

In the eighth grade the student learns something of the fundamentals of algebra, geometry, triangulation and business arithmetic.

Elective Subjects

In the ninth grade, mathematics becomes an elective subject. It was explained that up to about 20 years ago, algebra and geometry were required subjects, but a wider variety of mathematics, including bookkeeping and business arithmetic may be taken. A larger percentage of the student body take algebra and geometry courses because they are required subjects for most college courses.

Throughout these talks it was often brought out that while arithmetic for its own sake was of primary importance, it was also by far the most important course of study for the development of the child's mind and his power to think and to reason.

Present at the meeting besides school faculty members, were a number of parents of children and members of the school board.

On March 2 a similar meeting will be held when reports from the English committee will be heard.

Traveling Torpey Spends $1.96, Goes 6,200 Miles

Leo Torpey has traveled more than 6,200 miles on $1.96—and he still has several hundred miles to go on the two cents remaining from the original stake of $1.98 that was to finance him on a trip from Toronto, Can., to Miami, Fla., and return.

"Why are you in Escanaba on your way to Toronto from Miami?" a Daily Press Reporter asked Leo yesterday when he arrived here on one of the laps of his journey.

"It was a part of the bet I made that I would go to Miami and return with a side trip around Lake Michigan, all on $1.98," said the hitchhiking Leo, a husky youth who says that he is on his way back to resume his studies at the University of Toronto.

Otto R. Nelson Funeral Services At St. Ignace

Funeral services for Otto R. Nelson, 77, of Rexton, former resident of Escanaba and father of Lillian M. Olson of this city, who died Feb. 12, were held Monday at the George Davis Funeral Home in St. Ignace with burial in Maplewood Cemetery.

Mr. Nelson suffered a stroke Feb. 9 and was taken by ambulance to the Straits of Mackinac Hospital in St. Ignace where he died.

He was born in Oland, Sweden and came to this country to live in Escanaba as a young man. He was employed as a street motorman and conductor here. He went from Escanaba to Fiborn Quarry, Mich., where he was supervisor of blasting operations for the Fiborn Limestone Co. several years. After moving to Rexton he was employed by the Michigan State Highway Department until his retirement five years ago.

He was a member of the North Star Lodge of Escanaba.

He is survived by his wife, the former Marie Amundsen, one daughter, and one granddaughter, Audrey Olson.

The services Monday were conducted by the Rev. Simon Hocking of the First Presbyterian Church of St. Ignace. Hymns were sung by the women of the church choir, accompanied by Mrs. D. K. McEachern of St. Ignace, as organist.

Pallbearers were John Johnson, Leon Derusha, Wilbur Goudreau, Raymond Derusha, Chester Kerridge and Stanley Bowman.

Flash, Glitter Thrill Audience At Ice Varieties

The best and biggest ice show in Escanaba's skating history, "Ice Varieties of 1955", opened with flashing blades last evening before a large and appreciative audience at the indoor ice rink.

Every performer among the more than 200 participating in the ice revue was a star in his own right during the show. All of the skaters under the direction of Carolyn Johnson, Bob Schwalbach and Gordon Flath added the professional touch with their precision timing, intricate steps and poise on ice.

A number looked forward to every year by the ice show patrons is that which includes the show's toddlers, who always delight the audience with their cute and unexpected antics on the ice. This year's number, a scene of "The Wonderful Wizard of Oz", was no exception with the tiny tots dressed as animals, stealing the show during their performances.

Featured Performers

Another show stopper in the Wizard number, which featured dramatics on ice, was the charming and pretty dark haired miss, Donna Sullivan, a Dorothy, Donna, who has charmed audiences in several past revues, captivated the audience once again with her routine, displaying skill combined with grace and poise.

Other featured performers in the Wizard number were Carolyn Ward as Glinda, beautiful fairy of the North, who displayed her talent as a soloist for the first time this year; Kenny Nelson as the Scarecrow; Joan Hansen as Tinman; Barbara Bertrand as the Cowardly Lion; Loreen Jenkins as Wicked Witch of the South; Joy Peterson and Judy Marcouiller as two pages, who displayed good teamwork and timing as a duet; Mrs. Cleve Moore, Aunt Em, and Cleve Moore, Uncle Henry.

He has built up a publicity technique that has provided board and lodging in the towns where he stops. He visits the newspapers, the radio stations, the mayor, the police chief—and a hotel proprietor. To all of these he tells his story and wins a night's lodgings as well as publicity to carry on to the next overnight stop.

Has $100 Coming

His experiences as a hitchhiker have been various and sometimes amusing. Along the hitchhike route to and from Miami he has stopped occasionally to work—baby sitting, washing dishes for his meals, selling newspapers. To aid his cause (and get a free meal) he has addressed service clubs, talked on the radio, appeared on television.

He is three weeks late on his return schedule and he isn't sure what will happen at school when he returns. Perhaps they may throw him out, he says. While he's had a "wonderful time" on his trip he admits he is anxious to be home and collect his $100 bet.

family, Billy Goodreau, was not with Jim Bushey titled "Riding the Rails".

Star performer of the number, "A Star Is Born", is Jeanette Le-Captain, for whom the number she has dedicated for all the work she has done in the past for the progress of ice reviews in Escanaba. Jeanette appeared as a teenage starlet and a star, while her daughter, Jeanne, who is five years old, soloed as a baby starlet. Jeanne, amazing last night's viewers with her ability at so young an age, will prove to be the headliner of Escanaba's ice shows in the future.

Mary Goodreau, as in previous years, proved to be the star of the show with her wonderful skating ability, complete sureness and warming smile for the spectators. Many people can remember Mary as a featured skater when just a little tyke, and she has lost none of her winning ways on ice but has gained a few. She was featured in the production number, "Fiesta", and soloist of "Ice, Blades and Velvet".

Words, Wit & Wisdom

By William Morris

"Just the other day," notes a Middle-town (Conn.) reader, "you used the phrase 'passion for anonymity.' Somehow this rings a bell way back in my memory but I can't quite remember where I heard it before. The expression has been running through my brain for a couple of days now, something like Mark Twain's 'Punch, brothers, punch with care; punch in the presence of the passenjare.' If you don't want me to go dippy, maybe you'd better rush an answer."

Well, sir, you heard it—or, more probably, read it—in a remark of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt. Midway through his Presidency, long after the original Brain Trust had broken up, he announced that he was going to appoint several "Presidential Assistants" who would serve him in an advisory capacity. Perhaps with a rueful recollection of the headline-grabbing antics of Tugwell, Ickes and others of his early associates, he noted that one of the first qualifications he would demand of the new assistants would be "a passion for anonymity." Apparently he succeeded, for the only one whose name comes to mind at the moment is Lauchlin Currie—and his claim to fame is probably based more on his post-war diplomatic missions than on his work with Mr. Roosevelt.

My correspondent, by the way, apparently belongs to that vast and growing group who believe that every witty remark uttered prior to 1940 should be ascribed to Mark Twain. While it is true that Twain quoted the nonsense verse about the "passenjare" in a memorable short story, he did not create it. That was done by a now nearly forgotten newspaperman, Noah Brooks, who was inspired to his deathless verse by a notice posted in a New York City horsecar. In those long lost days the cars were manned by both motormen and conductors, the latter circulating through the cars, collecting fares and issuing appropriately punch "trip slips." As Mr. Brooks put it, "a blue trip slip for a eight cent fare, a buff trip slip for a six cent fare, a pink trip slip for a five cent fare, punch in the presence of the passenjare."

UNITED Air Lines deserves to be commended for liberally rewarding the crew of a crippled Convair which was landed safely in an Iowa cornfield not long ago.

The speedy craft, bearing 39 persons, suddenly lost its elevator control. With the utmost skill the pilot and copilot, altering the plane's direction from time to time and juggling its power, managed to level it off and bring it down. The Convair slashed across the cornfield at 150 miles an hour and ground to a halt without nosing over. Nobody got a scratch.

In reward for this performance, the airline gave the pilot and copilot each $10,000 and paid the tax. It handed out $2250 to the stewardess who help keep the passengers calm and orderly.

There was a time in airline history, now pretty well forgotten, when any crewman associated with any sort of mishap—even one that turned out well—might be subjected to discipline. How much more sensible is this new approach.

No Sure-Fire Remedies Can Stop Graying Hair

By EDWIN P. JORDAN M.D. — Written for NEA Service

Premature graying of the hair while it carries no risks for life or health is a problem which obviously worries thousands.

Q—I am 29 years old and my hair the past year has been turning gray. Is this hereditary or the result of my diet? What can I do to stop it?

Mrs. B.—Early graying of the hair definitely runs in some families and is therefore probably of an hereditary origin. So far as is known it is not the effect of diet. I am sorry to say that there are no special diets, vitamins, drugs, injections, hormones, or anything else which have been found effective in stopping the progress of graying hair.

Q—In 1949 I had a permanent wave and the lady poured a liquid on my head. Since that time my scalp has itched most of the time, and sometimes it looks like a heat rash. I have tried lotions from the drugstore but am discouraged. What should I do?

Mrs. J. K.—It is harmful to wash the head during the menstrual period? Is it true that this can cause insanity?

Reader.—It is not harmful. It will not cause insanity.

Q—Is it dangerous to use snuff in the nose to cause drainage?

Mrs. J. O.—So far as I know the use of snuff is not a recognized treatment for any disorder in the nose or nearby passages. I should think it might be harmful and certainly would not recommend it.

Q—Would you please discuss hyperinsulinism. What can be done for it?

Reader.

A—Sensitivity of the skin to certain chemicals is by no means unusual and that is apparently what happened in your case. You should not have any more chemicals put on your scalp, at least without having skin tests first. Since the trouble did not disappear spontaneously and has lasted so long you will probably need the assistance of a skin specialist in order to get relief.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Lincoln Day paens of praise of a Republican administration by Republicans are quite natural but discordant notes are significant, too—if only to measure the amount of dissent.

But, while there is a disaffection inside the Republican party, it may be said that much of it is subsiding. This is due primarily to the statesmanlike manner in which President Eisenhower is steering the country through one of its most delicate experiences in international relations.

Last Autumn, for example, the discontent in the Republican party reflected a dissatisfaction with the administration's rebuffs at the hands of Red China and a feeling, too, that there was a tendency to persecute anti-Communists rather than to deal vigorously with Communist infiltration.

Since that time the President, by his resolute policy in Formosa, has won the confidence of many who previously were worried about a possible willingness in Washington to go along with the idea of admitting Red China to the United Nations. Now that the die has been cast and the President has drawn the line in the Far East, he has brought to his side many Republicans who were doubtful before.

As for the anti-Communist issue, this is by no means Mr. Eisenhower's single responsibility. For the Democrats have taken over both houses of Congress and, if the Republicans wish to agitate the charge of "softness," they can direct their protests to the Democratic chairmen of congressional committees who have yet to prove they will be as vigilant as their predecessors.

PRESIDENT STANDS FIRM

In many ways the present period should reflect a high point of popularity for the Eisenhower administration. Whatever misgivings the "right wing" may have as to the so-called leftward tendencies of the administration, the fact remains that on the really vital issues there has been considerable restraint about swallowing the New Deal or Fair Deal philosophy.

Thus, for example, on the issue of government ownership versus private enterprise, the President stands firm against "creeping socialism." All the hubbub by the Democrats about the Dixon-Yates contract by the Atomic Energy Commission hasn't budged the President. If he does get deeper into the controversy and really has to go to the electorate and tell what's at stake, he can capitalize politically on his stand. For the American people do not want the government to own everything, nor do all workers want to be employed by the government, where there is a no-strike barrier and collective bargaining is cumbersome to operate.

On the broader issues of a sociological nature, the President has shown that he is on the side of the "moderate progressives" and, by doing so, he has taken the wind out of the sails of the Democrats. For on such programs as federal help in school construction, the Democrats cannot find much to criticize except to say it is "too little and too late."

Likewise, in connection with other social-welfare policies, the Democrats find themselves saying the objectives are all right but the methods aren't any good. The other day the Democratic national chairman told a radio audience that the foreign policy objectives of the administration seem to be all right but that the "techniques" of operation are not what they should be.

It's all very reminiscent of the '30s when the Democrats were in power and some of the Republican speakers were saying the same thing—how desirable the objectives were but how poor were the methods of carrying them out.

GAINING CONFIDENCE

The Eisenhower administration, politically speaking, also is making substantial progress on the so-called "patronage" side. This has to do with the allocation of jobs to faithful Republicans who are supposed to replace hanger-on Democrats in various departments of the government. There is some evidence that the murmurs of the party organization folks in various states at last are being heeded.

It does look as if the President has derived some valuable experience from last Autumn's elections, because he seems to be aware that organization spirit and enthusiasm are necessary, especially in the smaller towns and communities which are normally Republican but which didn't get the vote out last fall.

On the whole, the Republican party seems to have survived its Lincoln Day inspection rather well despite the natural protests which were made by those who feel they must continue to apply the brakes against any stampede toward the "left."

The so-called "right wing," of course, is a powerful minority but, as the administration learns the facts of political life, it will do the things which will reduce that minority to a minimum. And the best procedure today toward winning a huge majority in 1956 is to steer the country away from war—by rejecting any policy of appeasement or "peace at any price" and exhibiting instead the kind of firmness and resoluteness which is so thoroughly American that voters in both parties cannot fail to give it their enthusiastic support.

science to solve crimes and because of his book, "Crime Investigation, Physical Evidence and Police Laboratory," that Sheppard's attorney, William J. Corrigan, brought him into the case. Corrigan hopes for enough new evidence to base an appeal of Dr. Sam's recent conviction and motion for a new trial.

Thus, dramatically, the fabulous Kirk, educator and crime expert, has put his mark on another of long line of mysteries. Again by using scientific examination and detection, he is trying to find some evidence which was overlooked.

One of the cases on which his reputation is based had a startling similarity to the Sheppard case.

In February, 1953, Mrs. Philip Watson was found dead in the bathtub of her San Francisco home. Her husband, an Army corporal, found the body.

There was no evidence of a sex crime. No money was taken and there was no evidence of an intruder. A throw rug near the victim's bed had been washed.

Police were baffled until a friend, brought to look over the house, was unable to find a yellow blanket which had been her wedding gift to the couple.

"I burned a hole in it and destroyed it some time back," the husband admitted. "I didn't want my wife to see it."

Centring their attention on Watson, police found a little black book with scores of names of women over the country. He had several cuts on his body which he explained as caused by shaving, a can opener and other things.

Watson denied the crime and claimed an alibi. At this point Kirk was called in. With the scientific detection devices he has invented and accumulated during his activities as a criminologist since 1935, he incriminated Watson.

(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey got a lot of fan mail after his recent appearance on "Meet the Press." Most of it was complimentary and the writers said that the secretary had given them confidence in the way the financial affairs of the government are being run.

One mechanic from Atlanta, Ga., put it this way:

"On second thought, I'm going to sign up Monday morning for payroll deduction to buy a $25 bond each week."

And now the U. S. Savings Bond division of the Treasury wants to sign up the Secretary as a salesman.

SEN. ROBERT S. KERR (D., Okla.) had planned to attend the Oklahoma City Gridiron Club dinner this year, but had to cancel out at the last minute to vote on the Formosa resolution. In one song parody dedicated to him, he missed this ribbing:

When a certain millionaire,
Leaves an empty, empty chair,
That's the greatest feeling in the world—
When the issue that he's drawn
Makes the public want to yawn,
That's the greatest feeling in the world.
Voters always want to gag.
When they hear an old windbag
Who thinks that he's another Milton
Berle.
When your popularity
Means a big majority.
Mister, that's the greatest feeling in the whole wide world.

WHEN THE LATE Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes died in 1935, he made certain specific bequests to his family and friends and then declared in his will that, "All the remainder of my estate I give to the United States of America."

When the will was probated, it was disclosed that this remainder he had gratefully bequeathed to his government amounted to $263,288.20. This sum was put in a special trust fund till somebody could decide what to do with it. And for nearly 20 years now, it has been lying around, not even drawing any interest. It still amounts to $263,288.20.

In 1940 a joint resolution was passed by Congress, specifying that a site should be acquired near the Supreme Court building on Capitol Hill, for an Oliver Wendell Holmes Memorial Garden. That was fine as far as it went, but it didn't go far enough.

Architects determined that it would cost $400,000 to build a suitable memorial garden. Lacking $136,711.80 of that amount, nothing at all has been done.

"Because you put some big stones in the center of the jar where they couldn't see them?"

"Smart," said Carmichael. "Only it wasn't stones—it was blocks of wood. Mind you, I didn't lie about it. I just didn't mention that the jar wasn't filled solidly with beans. I wouldn't exactly cheat anyone, but, after all, I didn't make $100 a week off that store."

"A man's got to be sharp to get by," said Johnny.

"True, Fletcher, true. I used to tell Jess all the time . . ." He stopped, his face becoming sober. "That means me back to the reason I'm here. This woman who telephoned me—Alice Cummings, she calls herself."

"Ah, yes!"

Carmichael frowned. "When Jess was a small boy, seven or eight, I gave him a bank—"

"A bronze goose bank?"

"You know about it?" Carmichael asked eagerly.

"Perhaps you'd better finish," Johnny suggested.

"I had a dozen stores by that time," Carmichael went on. "My wife had died and a governess was taking care of Jess. I wasn't rich, but I was comfortably off. I wanted to teach him the value of thrift, so I gave him this little bank. For some reason it became Jess's favorite toy." Carmichael drew a deep breath. "And then he grew up and I don't believe I ever saw the—the goose bank again. And now this woman tells me that she has the bank and wants to sell it to me."

"For how much?"

"That's the fantastic part of it, $50,000."

"Fifty thousand . . ."

"I hung up on her. She called back. Said she wasn't just selling me the bank, she was selling me the name of the person who murdered Jess. What do you think of that?"

"Mr. Carmichael," Johnny said softly, "she might have been telling the truth! Since yesterday more people have tried to get that bank from me . . ."

"You have it?"

"I had it. It was stolen from this room this morning."

Carmichael groaned. "Why didn't you tell me you had the bank?"

"I didn't know it was so valuable when I had it."

"The woman knew. She told me over the phone that Jess had had a premonition of his death and that he'd told her if something happened to him to give the bank to me, because it contained the name of the person who had killed him."

"Johnny dug deep into his right trouser pocket and brought out the handful of coins he had taken from the bank the day before. He dumped them on the counter-pane-

"Not bad at all. In my first store I had a big glass jar full of beans. Everybody who made a purchase had the privilege of making a guess as to how many beans there were in the jar. If they guessed the right number of beans, they got a prize of $100 in cash." He chuckled. "Nobody ever even came close. You'd be surprised though how many people bought jars of the same size and filled them with beans and then counted the beans one by one. They still couldn't

Father Gives Up Business, Joins Son At U. Of M.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—A 45-year-old man with an ambition to become a professional youth counselor has given up a flourishing monument and building stone business to go to college along with his son.

"It's something I've always wanted to do," said Edward Jones, of Port Huron, Mich.

Jones is majoring in psychology at the University of Michigan so he can qualify as a boys' counselor. He has been a Boy Scout leader for 28 years.

Jones said he never had expected to realize his dream of obtaining a college degree because "almost as far back as I can remember I've worked almost seven days a week year in and year out."

His son Zan, 23, helped him make up his mind.

"Zan decided to come to the university after spending four years in the Navy," he said. "Since he had had his fill of dormitory life in service he asked us to move to Ann Arbor so he could live at home."

"Then he suggested that I might as well enroll too as I had always been talking about college. So when Zan signed up as a freshman in literary college, I enrolled as a sophomore."

Jones is a year ahead of his son because of credits he has picked up over the years.

Mrs. Jones also plans to take one or two courses, even though housework takes up most of her time.

GOOD FEEDING

by AL JOHNSON

NORTHERN FLOUR & GRAIN
ESCANABA, MICH.

A HEALTHY, bright and perky hen will produce the eggs you expect from her, if she gets what she needs from you! For most profitable egg production pullets should be culled and housed when they begin to lay. Be sure the laying house has been cleaned and disinfected just before bringing in the pullets. Allow three square feet of floor space for heavy breeds. For every 100 hens provide a 4-8 inch layer of dry litter along with the equivalent of two 8-foot feeders, one 8-gallon waterer and 20 nests.

FEED IT 50-50 with farm grains, putting it in self-feeders if you want, but hand-feeding the grain to prevent overeating. About three-fourths of the scratch grains should be fed in the evening. This assures plenty of available feed when the birds start looking for it the following morning. Remainder of the grain can be fed in the morning. Feed only what the birds clean up . . . reduce the grain fed if the birds become too fat. Increase it if birds are thin.

EGG PRODUCTION MAY BE increased by using artificial lighting to provide a 14-hour feeding day. Forty to sixty watts per 200 square feet of floor space is usually recommended. Feed intake may also be increased by feeding wet mash or noon feeding of pullets. Provide the birds with limestone grit or oyster shells and insoluble grit. Keep plenty of fresh water in clean fountains before the birds eat all times.

Firemen Seek Shorter Hours

Men employed in municipal fire departments in Michigan are seeking the passage of legislation which would reduce their working hours, while the municipalities are opposing the measure as a violation of the principle of home rule.

Escanaba City Manager A. V. Aronson is directing attention of the City Council to Senate Bill 1079, which would reduce the hours of city firemen from 70 to 63 per week by giving them an additional "Kelly day." A similar bill was last year defeated in the legislature by one vote.

Senate Bill 1079 would give the firemen an additional "Kelly day" in every 16-day period and would result in an "average daily work week of not more than 63 hours."

"Under the proposed two Kelly day system, firemen would be on duty six days and off duty 10 days out of every 16-day period," the city manager advised the Council. If the legislation became law, Escanaba would be required to hire additional firemen and costs would increase. The firemen's on-duty hours include hours of sleeping and eating, the city manager noted.

State regulation of wages and hours of municipal employees is opposed by Michigan cities as a violation in principle of their home rule charters. The state legislature makes no appropriation for the financing of salaries of firemen or other city employees.

Mother Arrives After 7 Years

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Mother is home at last for the Katsanevas.

Mrs. Mike Katsanevas arrived at a Salt Lake City airport Wednesday, alone and bewildered. For seven years she had waited to come from Greece to America and be with her husband.

But somehow word of her arrival failed to reach Mike and their children. She waited an hour and a half. Then suddenly her 66-year-old husband and three of their children hurried into the airport waiting room.

There were tearful embraces and happy exclamations. "Mother" was home.

Mike had to leave Mrs. Katsanevas behind in Greece with seven of his children when he came to America with the other three in 1947. He found work as a janitor at the Clearfield Naval Supply Depot and tried to save so he could bring the rest of his family to their new home.

But the saving was slow. Finally, his fellow workers heard about his efforts and chipped in to bring the family to America in time for Christmas.

The children arrived shortly after the holiday, but Mrs. Katsanevas had had to stay behind until a minor stomach ailment cleared up.

The family still isn't complete. One son, James, is with the U.S. Air Force in Arizona. Another, George, is in the Greek army.

Bad Weather Helps Some U.S. Industries To Get Out Of Red

NEW YORK (AP)—The weatherman—who gets blamed for almost everything—is getting some friendly pats from industries that fared less profitably in other years when the winters were more on the sissy side.

It's been a good winter for the makers and sellers of heavy overcoats, rubbers and galoshes. Some coal companies have gone from red to black ink. Fuel oil producers and distributors are happy. And those who sell natural gas, especially in the industrial Midwest, are fat and sassy after several lean winters.

Not that everyone in business likes the weatherman. Merchants in many cities for which snow and ice storms have shown a particular preference in recent weeks blame the weatherman for store sales dropping below the year ago figure.

How either can ruin or bless merchandising plans is shown in last week's figures. New York department stores report sales off three per cent because the weather kept people home. San Francisco, with better days, had a sales increase of six per cent above the year ago figures.

Chain stores and mail order houses report big gains in sales last month, as merchandise associated with cold weather moved freely. The average gain for the group was around nine per cent.

Fuel peddlars have had some sorry winters in recent years and talked gloomily of climatic changes and the disappearance of the old-fashioned "real" winter. But this year the American Petroleum Institute reports that cold weather has reduced the big stocks of fuel oils to the industry's joy.

And officials of the Columbia Gas System, which serves the industrial Midwest where winter

A DEFENSIVE COUP

East's key defensive play in the following hand was shrewd, timely and very effective.

South dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

♦ J 8 5	♦ K 10
♥ A 7 6	♦ Q J 10 8
♦ 6 4 3 2	♦ 7 5
♣ A 4 3	♣ K 9 8
♦ A Q 9 7 2	♦ J 6 2
♦ K Q 8
♣ K 9 8

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠ Pass	1 N T	Pass
2 ♠ Pass	3 ♠ Pass
4 ♠ Pass	Pass

There are grounds or considerable doubt that North-South should have reached game. North's one-notrump response was correct—his two aces and one jack had to be weighed against his bad 4-3-3 distribution—and South should have accepted that one-notrump contract; he lacked the strength for the spade rebid. Without an unusually good break in spades, South would have had to lose two diamonds, a club and a spade.

West led the diamond king and continued with the ace and nine. South ruffed the third round, led a heart to the ace and then after long thought, led the five of trumps.

While South was pondering—obviously over which trump, jack or low, to lead from dummy—East did some thinking on his own account. So, when the spade five was led, East tossed on the king, exactly as though he couldn't help himself.

South couldn't be blamed for taking East's bait. It seemed certain that West had started with 10-6-4-3 of trumps, so, after taking East's king, South confidently finessed to dummy's spade eight. Needless to say, he was not amused when East gravely took in the trick with the spade ten.

It is quite obvious that if East had played that spade ten as the first trump lead, he would have made matters very easy for the declarer.

Man wanted to work in dynamite factory. Must be willing to travel.

The above ad appeared in a French newspaper. We often wonder who took that job.

And speaking of traveling where would you go to find anything that would clean carpets like the new Triple Strength Fina Foam.

It's made from an entirely new formula. You add water to turn one gallon of concentrate into three gallons of ready to use foam cleaner.

Another innovation is the long handled brush to apply the foam that makes cleaning so easy. The nap is left open and fluffy. The dirt is removed consequently there is no rapid resoiling. One gallon of concentrate for $2.25 cleans three 9x12 mugs.

Large Attendance At St. Anne's Social Party Last Evening

Over 80 persons attended the supper party, sponsored by St. Anne's Social club last evening at the parish hall. A short business meeting during which the Rev. Clifford Nadeau spoke briefly was held following the supper. The remainder of the evening was spent playing cards.

Card game winners were Mrs. G. E. Christie, bridge; Mrs. Joseph Gregoire, 500, and Mrs. Lawrence McCarthy, pinochle. The guest award was received by Mrs. Albert Piche.

A George Washington theme was carried out in the party decorations. Party chairman was Mrs. Thomas Richer with Mrs. Melvin Carlson as co-chairman. They were assisted by the other club officers, who acted as hostesses.

For a wonderful and different vegetable combination, mix cooked green peas, cooked baby green lima beans, and diced cooked green snap beans; heat with a well-flavored cream sauce. Turn into a shallow baking dish, top with grated cheddar cheese and place under the broiler until cheese is melted and flecked with brown.

Daytime's Silhouette Is Narrow

Though the predominant daytime dress silhouette for Spring is the narrow one, there are many dresses with a modified fullness in the skirt. These are worn with fewer petticoats than formerly. Harvey Berlin's black-and-white silk taffeta pincheck (left) has tight bodice, collar, bow and cuffs in white linen. The very straight and narrow line (right) is represented in this light-weight gray tweed by Pauline Trigere. Furs are by Leo Ritter.

By GAILE DUGAS

NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—A narrow silhouette, fitted from bustline to hipline, makes fashion news in daytime dresses this spring.

This does not mean that full skirts are absolutely out. But it does mean that it's a gentle fullness and it also means that spread-

Colorful Lecture At Woman's Club Meeting

In a colorful and informative lecture Wednesday afternoon before members of the Escanaba Woman's Club in Westminster Hall of the First Presbyterian Church, Arsha-Louise Bedrosian of Evans-ton, Ill., captivated her audience, her semi-oriental charm and exquisite costume blending the dignity of the East with the sparkle of the West.

Mrs. Bedrosian opened her address with the confession of having been born and reared in one of the oldest and smallest nations in the world, only to find herself a citizen of the newest and mightiest.

Born in Armenia

Her native country, Armenia, is called the cradle of humanity and is identified with the Garden of Eden, nestled in the valley of the two historical rivers, the Tigris and the Euphrates. In the very center of Armenia, Mrs. Bedrosian explained, is located one of the world's most famous of mountains, frequently mentioned in the Bible—Mount Ararat. It was there, atop Mount Ararat, she explained, that Noah's Ark was placed when the Great Flood of Biblical times had at last subsided. Too, Armenia, Mrs. Bedrosian declared, was the first nation in the world to accept Christianity as the national religion.

Raised in an Armenian personage in Turkey and educated in the American Woman's College in Istanbul, she said, "I had no choice of the country of my birth, nor of my future home . . . they were chosen for me by my Creator, who guides and controls the destiny of my faith." Therefore, next to my faith in God there is no other possession on earth 'hold so dearly, or guard so jealously as my priceless and cherished American citizenship".

Shopping, a Pleasure

She pointed out that marketing in America is a comfort and a pleasure, that we shop in clean, sanitary stores where an abundance of food is artistically displayed with fixed price and the butchers, dressed in immaculate white, remind one of "young internes with a smile." By comparison, she said, shopping in the old world is quite an ordeal. The food is scarce, the meat dangles from a hook while the townspeople bar-gain and bicker over the price.

"Children in America are the most privileged youngsters in the world," she observed. "Whether a child is born in a basement flat or in a penthouse, he must have a baby carriage. By virtue of his American heritage, he is potential heir to the throne of the White House and is raised as such. The Constitution of the United States is a most powerful document—it controls the majority and protects the minority."

For Betterment

"Before the last two world wars, the United States was the most respected and admired of all nations because we sent out to the world, educators, scientists and missionaries who taught the world to build for the betterment of

Stephenson

Opinionnaire Circulated
STEPHENSON—All schools in the mid-county area have circulated opinionnaires to the parents to learn of their interests as to the time of the year the schools should open and close. Parents are urged to give serious consideration to the opinionnaires and to return them to the school. Results will be published and will be used as a guide for future planning by boards of education.

Persons who have not received an opinionnaire may secure one by contacting the school in their district.

Churchill Letter

Sir Winston Churchill, prime minister of England, acknowledged a birthday greeting card mailed to him by Miss Carol Beaujodin and Gerrit Gucky, students of the Stephenson high school.

Milk Program

Pupils in the Stephenson Public Schools consumed 10,040 one-half pints of milk during January, 1955, as compared to 2,815 one-half pints in January 1954. The pupils, under the special milk program, are drinking nearly four times more milk than they did one year ago.

Plans are being made to further encourage the drinking of milk by supplying the elementary children with a snack and a carton of milk in mid afternoon and by providing milk dispensers in the study hall for the high school students.

Seaming. Where pleats are used, they're stitched down below the hipline, then released into fullness.

Both the shirtwaist dress and the unbelted coat dress are strong in all the trend collections.

Need Emphasis On Conservation

Seven Manistique School and community representatives attended a meeting in Newberry Tuesday to discuss increased integration of conservation studies in school teaching.

During the session it was pointed out that conservation and good citizenship are virtually synonymous, and that the lives of all are dependent upon conservation of natural resources.

Dr. Justin W. Leonard, research administrator for the department of conservation, opened the day-long meeting with an address on "Conservation Is Everybody's Business." Other speakers included the following:

Louis Kocsis, curriculum planning consultant for the state department of public instruction; Dorias Curry, of Marquette, regional chief for the department of conservation; Farley Tubbs, chief of the conservation department's education division; Paul M. Barrett, land-use specialist for Michigan State College; Esther Ojela, elementary principal, Newberry; Max Allan, director of in-service training, Northern Michigan College of Education, Marquette; R. D. Burroughs, conservation department education division; Paul Challancin, regional education director for the conservation department; Roger Nordeen, consultant in education, and Edwin G. Rice, consultant on curriculum services, for the conservation department.

Speakers pointed out that conservation now is being taught in schools, but that greater emphasis is needed. Plans call for teaching practical, rather than technical conservation, it was emphasized and the material can be integrated with almost all classroom studies.

Conservation teaching at elementary and secondary school levels, and programs presented by newspapers, radio, and service clubs also were discussed. Integration of conservation teaching in schools will be planned by the state department of public instruction and the department of conservation.

R. E. Kilpela, Luce county school superintendent, presented the summary at the conclusion of the conference, and Paul M. Barrett presented the inspiration evaluation.

Those attending from Manistique were Mrs. Ludwig Hough, county school superintendent; Arthur F. Hall, city school superintendent; Howard Schwartz, Cooks school superintendent; Mrs. Minnie McGurk and Mrs. Josephine Schnurr, rural teachers; and Merwin White, president, and James Howland, of the Schoolcraft County Sportsmen's club. The session was well-attended, it was reported.

Your Income Tax Primer

How To Report Wages, Salary

(Fourth of 1st articles)

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
Written for NEA Service

This article and the next three of NEA's Income Tax Primer will tell you how to fill out the parts of your tax return where income is reported.

The most important source of income for most taxpayers is wages or salaries, so let's take up first how to handle this income.

Most of the rules on reporting salaries and wages are the same this year as in previous years. Employers are still required to withhold taxes from the salary or wages they pay to employees except in a very few types of work, such as farming or domestic service.

Then by Jan. 31, the employer is required to furnish the employee a Withholding Tax Statement (Form W-2) which shows total wages before payroll deductions, and also the amount of tax withheld.

You should get a W-2 from each of your employers during 1954 and you must, as in the past, send one copy of the W-2 to the District Director with your return. There are spaces on both Forms 1040A and 1040 for you to copy the amounts shown on your W-2s.

If a tax was not withheld from your salary or wage, ask your employer how much he paid you during 1954 if you haven't kept a record of the amounts. Report such income on separate lines opposite each employer's name. This includes tips received direct from customers and wages as a domestic servant, farm hand, or casual laborer.

The forms printed with this article show how to report salaries or wages on both Forms 1040A and 1040. After you have filled in that part, the next step is to see whether you qualify for the new tax break for wage earners who received pay while absent from work on account of sickness or injury during 1954.

Here's how this tax break works:

If your employer has a plan or agreement with his employees that he will continue to pay you during absences on account of sickness or injury, and, during 1954, you received pay from your employer for the period you were absent from work on account of injury, then you can subtract so much of this pay as does not exceed a weekly rate of $100.

If you were paid while absent on account of sickness, you can subtract so much of this pay as does not exceed $100 per week after you have been sick for one full week. However, if your illness is such that you are hospitalized at least one day during your illness, you can subtract up to $100 per week of this pay from the first day of absence.

For example, suppose you were absent from work on account of sickness for 10 consecutive calendar days and your employer paid you $140 for the 10 calendar days, as he had agreed to do as one of your working benefits. If you were not hospitalized during the absence, then you can subtract pay for only the last three days, or 42. However, if you were hospitalized for one or more days during the sickness, you could subtract the entire $140, since the rate of payment is less than $100 per week.

There is a place on both 1040A and 1040 to subtract this exclusion, as is shown in the sample forms with this article. In addition, you have to attach a short statement to your return showing your name and address, the dates of your absences and whether from injury or sickness, the dates you were hospitalized, and the pay you received for the sick leave. You can use as a guide the sample statement shown with this article.

Just as in past years, employees can deduct certain trade or business expenses from their wages

'MISSILE MAIL' MAY BE NEXT—It's possible now to transport light mail across the Atlantic in radio-controlled guided missiles. In fact, mail-bearing missiles are being tested by the U.S. Both Germany and Italy have tried using mail-containers propelled by rockets. That's what John M. Redding, former assistant postmaster general, told the Parcel Post Association at Chicago recently. Map shows how it might be done. According to Redding, "such a missile could be guided halfway across the Atlantic from a base in this country, then have control taken by the receiving end and securely landed in Europe with mails only three or four hours old out of the U.S." Big hitch is that present cost of such a project is prohibitive. He Rides Through U.S. To Find Job In France

AP Newsfeatures

DALAS, Tex.—Guy Chassagnard, 19, wants a job in France. So he came to the United States.

He landed in Montreal last July and rode his bicycle down to New York and across to Chicago. Then he turned south to Oklahoma and Texas and is going on across the country.

He explains that he is learning about it for one Paris newspaper and five magazines. He wants a French newspaper job, but he had no experience and no influential friends. He's showing French editors what he can do.

French manufacturers equipped him with his bicycle, movie camera, tent, sleeping bag, air mattress, even a cigarette lighter. That bicycle has 150 pounds of equipment draped over it. A shipping firm arranged the Atlantic crossing.

He says he is going slowly, but and the farther west he goes, the more friendly the people have been, he says.

One thing he finds strange is the "dry country" where alcoholic drinks have been banned.

"In France, beer is a soft drink," he says.

More people get more news from newspapers than from all other sources combined.

Bowmen's Club Is Organized

Student Council Assigns 3 Dances

The Gladstone Bowmen's Club has been organized here and practice sessions are being held at Gladstone High School twice weekly, it was announced yesterday by Conner E. Fisher.

Membership is restricted to archers who are able to produce a 1954 archers deer license or seal, Fisher stated, and at the present time there are about 15 members.

There is still room for others providing they can qualify for membership in the club.

Recently the bowmen have been shooting at animated targets. Last week a 'Rabbit Hunt' was held and this week the event is a 'Fox Hunt.'

Briefly Told

Bible Instruction—A Bible instruction class will be held at 4:15 Friday at the Bethel Evangelical Free Church.

IN NEW ROLE — Shufflin' Sam (that's his name on registration papers) will go to almost any length to ham it up and get his mug printed in newspapers. Inspired by being a boxer, Sam dons derby and boxing gloves for this latest portrait. Last time he appeared in print he was a cow-poke. U. S. Figure Skaters Shoot For World Title

VIENNA (AP) — The United States puts its hopes for a clean sweep in the world individual figure skating championships on the artistic blades of blonde Tenley Albright today after showing complete mastery in the men's competition.

The odds were with Miss Albright, 19, year-old pre-medical student from Newton, Mass., to reclaim the women's title she won in 1953. She gave a fine performance in the first four figures of the compulsory event Wednesday. The final two figures will be held today with the free style event to night.

The U. S. gained its most clear-cut superiority in the men's championships Wednesday night as Hayes Alan Jenkins won his third straight title with a minimum of effort. Right behind him were Ronald Robertson of Los Angeles, who gave a magnificent exhibition in the free style skating, and David Jenkins, the champion's younger brother, who took third.

Youthful Fades

Hayes Jenkins built up his championship total, 203.7 points and place mark II, in the compulsory figures, where a skater must follow a series of set patterns. It proved just enough. With his outstanding work in the free style, when a skater makes up his own routines and is judged on originality and perfection, Robertson finished with 201.12 points and place mark 16. Dave Jenkins had 201.16.

Alain Giletti of France, the 15-year-old European champion, showed the strain of the competition and wound up fourth after being second at the start of the final event.

Hugh Graham of the U. S. was 10th.

Legislature Votes Merger Of Counties In Probate District

LANSING (AP)—The House sent to the Senate Wednesday a joint resolution which would allow counties to band together into one probate judge district.

The resolution, passed by a 92-11 vote, is a constitutional amendment requiring the approval of voters before it would take effect.

Speaker Wade Van Valkenburg (R-Kalamazoo) said the measure will save money in sparsely populated counties and also improve the probate courts.

"In many of the Northern counties," Van Valkenburg said, "probate judges are not now earning a living wage. This amendment would eliminate that situation."

A provision which would have allowed the Legislature to set qualifications of probate judge was thrown out by an amendment.

House members discussed a similar proposal dealing with the qualifications of Supreme Court justices and Circuit Court justices.

Under the proposal, a person would have to be a lawyer and under 70 years of age to be eligible for election or appointment to either office.

Action on the resolution was delayed to give legislators a chance to work out details.

The House passed, 73-27, a bill requiring buyers of milk and milk products to pay farmers at least twice a month for the products.

The bill, which now goes to the senate, would permit the Department of Agriculture to revoke the license of any milk buyer delinquent in payments.

The Senate considered a new step in penal reform—a proposal that a criminal conviction be expunged from the record of anyone who has satisfactorily done his time in a probation camp under court supervision.

The proposal was offered by Sen.

German Army A La Democratic

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—West German newspaper cartoonists are having fun lampooning government claims that the future German army will be "democratic" in its discipline and drill.

One cartoon shows German soldiers—wearing American-type helmets and uniforms—gathered for a lecture on gun sights. But instead of paying attention, they are sprawled over a huge couch, regarding the army as a country club.

Other cartoons compare the future and past treatment of a German military conscript. In the old days, it was a sour-looking board of officers that greeted him. In 1955, it will allegedly be a board of bosomy females.

A truck will haul the conscript's uniform, and a maid will scrub his barrack floor. When he steps out for the evening in a natty civilian suit, not one but four Lili Marlenes will await him at the kaserne gate!
